From the onset of the game. Brazil was entirely in command of the game, the first one in this fourth session of the tournament. Brazil's dominant defense and counter attack proficiency were the key factors in the first quarter, one that saw Brazil score 7 goals and not letting Peru score at all. The second quarter was all Brazil once again, Peru just couldn't penetrate the tight defense that their opponent presented and Brazil was able to capitalize on every turnover. The score at halftime was 13-1 in Brazil's favor. During the second half, Peru came with more energy from the onset, been able to score three goals during the third quarter. They were able to work the ball around the perimeter and get good looks at the cage. The fourth quarter was full with turnovers for Peru and counter attacks from Brazil. The defensive pressure from Brazil never stopped during the entire game, making it difficult for Peru to have a more effective offensive game. Brazil was led by

Colombia and Argentina played in what has been the most competitive game of the tournament. Both teams from South America came out playing with the high emotion that is characteristic of both countries. Both teams played with very contrasting offensive schemes. Colombia moved the ball around the perimeter trying to look for the best outside shot. Argentina on the other hand was more double post and pound the ball inside. The first quarter was a close one, where Colombia finished ahead 4-3. The second quarter saw Colombia clogging the middle and not allowing any kind of shots for Argentina. Even when Argentina had good shots, the Colombian goalkeeper was able to stop and lead his team to the offensive attack. Between the third quarter and the first part of the fourth one, Colombia went on a 5-1 spree, which allowed them to up their lead to 6 goals (11-5). From there on, Argentina just played catch up and were able to score four goals with extra hard work from their leading scorer Camnasio. Colombia regrouped in the last two minutes and get the victory. Orozco (#8) lead a balanced attack from Colombia with 4 goals. Camnasio (#9) led Argentina with 8 goals. Colombia plays Puerto Rico and Argentina plays Trinidad and Tobago during tomorrow's session.

Strog defense, counter attack offense. Two key components that were key to the USA dominance against Puerto Rico during the third game of the men's session. The physical nature of the game didn't favor Puerto Rico, a quick team but also a smaller team. USA was able to dominate from the inside and when not scoring from two meters they were scoring on the counter attacks and on their precise extra man opportunities. The first half ended with USA on top 10-3, a score that doesn't show how dominant they were during the whole game. The second half was better for the Puerto Rico team, who never gave up on trying to attack the USA defense and containing the USA potent counter attack. The fourth quarter was all Puerto Rico, winning it by the score 3-2, and showing that they could do battle with one of the best teams of the tournament. USA was led by Cavano (#8) with 5 goals while Puerto Rico was led by Rosado (#9) with three goals, most of them from two meters. Puerto Rico has an important game tomorrow against Colombia. USA will have the day off.

Mexico was able to win for the first time in the tournament, beating winless Jamaica by the score 19-3. Mexico wasted no time and from the first quarter showed that they were coming to win this game and play as good as they are use to play. The first quarter was all Mexico, winning it by a score of 8-1. They were able to score from their perimeter shooting and from Jamaica's turnovers. Jamaica just couldn't counter with much offense, scoring just one goal during that period. During the second quarter, Jamaica played more conservative offense, minimizing their mistakes and reducing Mexico's opportunities to counter to a minimum. Halftime ended with a 10-3 score in favor of Mexico. The third quarter saw a different Mexico team, more aggressive of defense and with more desire and will to score on every opportunity they got. They were able to score seven goals during the quarter, while not allowing Jamaica to score. The last quarter had Jamaica playing very conservative at both ends while Mexico just concentrated on not allowing Jamaica any score. Veledias (#5) from Mexico lead all scorers with 5 goals. His team will play Peru on the last day of the preliminary round. Jamaica, who has finished the preliminary round, was led by Bryan (#7) with two goals.
