The Leadership School is the fourth of ASCA's five certification courses. One can argue that effective coaching is all about effective leadership, and, therefore, Level 4 is a course to take early in your coaching career. Leaders are not born, they are made. This course can help you become a better leader – on the deck, in the local community, at the national level.

The manual teaches specific skills and steps that you need to master to lead your athletes, peers, and administrators or other adults, effectively. The school helps coaches understand the agencies and organizations that administratively run the world of swimming. Also contains a review of modern leadership literature, a section on personal goals, and 50 great sales ideas to help you coach better. ASCA Certification: Test included with manual, 15 units.
