

WEEK SEVEN NEWSLETTER

Welcome to the Week 7 newsletter! This week we did Color Wars! The camp was divided into the Red, Blue, and Green Teams! Campers worked together to compete against other teams. Read about each day's competition below!

Monday we kicked off color wars with an official announcement of which teams everyone belonged to! Counselors did a great job not only making sure the teams were fair, but ensuring all campers had at least one friend on their team. The first day we did a chalk competition! Teams worked together to draw chalk masterpieces!

Tuesday's activities were definitely camper favorites! The highlight of the day was the cannonball competition in the afternoon! In the morning, campers made team posters to support their teammates at the competition.

Wednesday, color wars got even more competitive with a sponge relay race! Campers and counselors worked together to use a sponge to fill a bucket of water as fast as possible!

Thursday was super hot, but we knew how to work around that! The competition of the day was a water balloon toss! Campers partnered up with someone on their team to throw balloons back and forth while spreading out!

Friday we ended color wars with a diving competition! Campers with some diving experience got to show off their skills in support of their team!

The winner of Color Wars was.... THE RED TEAM! Congrats Red Team and great teamwork!

Tiny Cudas: The Tiny Cuda's theme of the week was "Out of this World!" We spent our mornings working on crafts that involved planets and outer space!

UPCOMING:

How is this week already the last official week of camp?! While your camper may be sad the summer is coming to an end, this week will definitely be fun! On Tuesday we have a big inflatable waterslide coming, on Wednesday we have Mr.Softee again, and then on Friday we have our "Floating into Fall" party! Bring your pool float and get ready for some rootbeer floats!
