

In response to Sky Sports article: "Athletics: RUSADA Open Investigation into Widespread Doping Within Russia Sports"

This is all incredible Bullshit. They catch the small fry to prove they are "doing things" and let the big dogs lie quietly on the porch, untested or tested and then the samples assigned to a small fry. Total lies, totally informed by the Old East German regime and experts on how to do this. The truth is RUSADA provides the drugs to the elite athletes and then, when they win prize money, extorts 40-60% of it from those exact same athletes to keep their positive results unknown to anyone else. Extortion, plain and simple.

We know this factually from athletes who have reported the system to the outside world or whom have left Russia. The entire system is corrupt, including all of swimming, led from the highest levels of Russian Sport and Russian society.
