 - All swimmers will exit the pool at the shallow end, retrieve and put on their mask, and walk to their assigned base where they must remain until their next swim.

- At the conclusion of the previous race, during the previous swimmers' warm down swim and after the timers have captured the swimmers' times and have moved back to the wall, swimmers for the next heat will be permitted to proceed to the block behind their assigned race lane. A designated marshal will control the flow of swimmers to the area behind the blocks.
